Third, Delivery:

The delivery is always effected under the conditions and to the prices as in effect on the day of the delivery, plus VAT. We endeavour to deliver as fast as possible, however fixed delivery terms are only granted when they are expressly confirmed by us in writing as a fixed delivery date. In this case the customer has to grant us a suitable period to remedy of at least 4 weeks. After lapse of this period the customer may rescind from the contract, further claims are excluded. Deliveries can be effected in parts by us. The customer is not entitled to reject a partial delivery. We reserve the right to changes due to construction of the goods. We are entitled to, without need of giving a period to remedy, request the goods from the customer in case the customer injures his obligations or in default with his payment obligations. When we take back the goods under restriction of title this shall not constitute a rescinder of our contract unless otherwise declared in writing.

We are entitled to shorten any payment periods previously granted and to declare our receivables due, in the event that customer is in default with payments or instalments. Payment is only deemed effected once the amount is on our account at our unrestricted disposal. We are also entitled to use payments of customers for the oldest debt plus interest and fees incurred on such debt even if customers gave a different instruction, which means in the order of cost, interest, capital. Partial deliveries are due with the amount equalling the delivery. The customer is only entitled to withhold the amount equaling the missing part when a delivery by us is not effected in full.
